Long Dresses of Paris Fashion Losing Out, Dressmakers Admit

By PRINCESS ALI FAZIL
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS, Nov. 25. (U.P.) The war of the skirts is on, and it threatens to go down into history along with the war of the roses and other famous skirmishes.

The million-dollar dressmakers' trust of Paris is in the trenches as ammunition, but they suddenly find themselves with many women of the world lined up against them as allies.

The world is not taking to the edict of the Paris masters that skirts must be longer. Britain and America, particularly, seem to have had enough of the Gallic domination of style decrees. They have been slow to buy the ankle-length Paris creations. For the time being the women are winning their battle, for the style czars have re-made their collections and it is noticeable that dresses are no longer full length but only medium length.

It is likely that the battle of the skirts will end as all wars do, with an armistice and the belligerents will spend much time and money in negotiating a compromise. Rather than give up the battle entirely, the dressmakers may compromise on short skirts up to 3 1/2 in. and then long skirts until morning.

Like Their Freedom
The whole trouble is that women have learned to like freedom of dress and have no intention of sacrificing comfort again for style. Mrs. Jean Nash Dubouche, one of the best dressed women of Paris, said:

"Then too, it is easy for women with a limited budget to make their own simple, short, dresses, while they would be lost in the complications of the long robes. That may have much to do with the final decision."

Car With Signs
Will Advertise
Kingman, Ariz.

A magnificent car with a large sign setting forth "the advantages of Kingman and Boulder Dam" will be used by two Kingman real estate promoters, Harris and Enright, in a sales campaign throughout California and adjoining states, according to the Mojave Miner.

This paper says, in part: "The interior has been fitted up with a projection room that will hold about 25 auditors and a movie of Kingman, Boulder Canyon and the whole surrounding country may be seen on the screen. There is also a large plac of the country in relief that is more than interesting. Offices are also fitted up to house several people and capacity for many who may be interested in the territory represented."

The new car has cost the firm more than $17,000. This method of advertising the town and country is one of the most important features ever put out by a real estate firm, and not only ought to bring

New H. S. Plant To Be Started In Two Weeks

Sorenson, of Utah Concern
Given Contract, in Salt Lake City Preparing to Ship Equipment Here.

Construction of Las Vegas's new three-building high school plant will be started two weeks from yesterday and completed in time for school next fall, according to expectations of T. C. Sorenson, of the firm Ryberg and Sorenson, concern which was awarded the contract for the construction and the plumbing Saturday.

Sorenson, who will be here most of the time during construction, left Saturday for Salt Lake City to prepare for shipment of equipment here for the work. Two carloads of equipment are now being loaded in the Utah city for shipment here.

The Las Vegas Neon Sign company, of which Barrat and Davis are members, was awarded the contract for the electrical work, having the lowest bid.

Ryberg and Sorenson are expected to give the plumbing sub-contract to a Salt Lake City concern, according to O. K. Adcock, president of the local school board.

Taylor Brothers, of Las Vegas, were the nearest low bidders to Ryberg and Sorenson in the matter of the plumbing bid. Taylor Brothers bid $31,845, as compared with a bid of $29,000 submitted by the Utah concern. This leaves a difference of $2,845.

It is expected the work will be done by August 1, 1930, possibly by the middle of July.

President Adcock, of the board of education, arrived in Las Vegas Friday night, from Los Angeles.

Ryberg and Sorenson built El Portal theatre and did the revision work on the present high school building.

SO WHAT?

LONDON, Nov. 25. (U.P.) Experts at Madame Tussaud's famous wax works estimate that 2,000,000 bees, working overtime for twelve months, could furnish sufficient wax for the figure of Primo Carnera, 280-pound giant Italian boxer.

results to the projectors, but will add greatly to Kingman publicity.

The firm handling the Kingman tract has put over many important subdivision deals in the Los Angeles territory and have a large clientele as well as a very large force of salesmen and office employees."

HUNTS FOR WORK BY DAY, SLEEPS IN JAIL

SAN JOSE, Nov. 25. (U.P.) To hunt for work by day, but to spend his nights in the county jail was the unique sentence imposed on Raymond L. Gillardin by Superior J. R. Welch for failing to provide for his wife and children.

Gillardin received that sentence after "gagging" the judge with a series of wisecracks that turned the court into a vaudeville show. "I don't drink anything," Gillardin kept repeating, when officers declared that his carousing prevented him from working.
